

Is your family at risk of Child Safety involvement?

Are you struggling raising your family?

If so, we can help in several ways by:

- Developing positive practical parenting skills.
- Building better relationships between family members, including help with violence at home.
- Improving budgeting and managing money.
- Managing alcohol, drug or gambling problems.
- Assisting with housing, healthcare, or other community or government services.
- Supporting school attendance.

Call us, and one of our professional Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Family Wellbeing Officers will visit your home and start helping you get back in control of your family life.
